Death and Faneral of George H. Famett. Another case has been added to the list of almost, sudden deaths which have startled the community during the past year, the victim in this last instance being George H. Fassett, the well known and popular manager of the Hawsian Hotel. The deceased had been confined to his bed but four days, suffering from dyseculery, and the but four days, suffering from dyseculery, and the attending physicians Drs. Arumg and Troussau, had not regarded the illness as at all liable to one as addenly, in the death of Mr. Frasett. On the morning of the, 19th inst., deceased had walked from the Hotel to a cottage in the grounds, and although somewhat irrational at times in his talk, gave no other indication of the meanness of the fell desiroyer. About noon of that date a change was noticed and the deceased fell into a comatose condition, ending in death. On the news of his death being made pablic the flags on the engine houses and on the Hotel were half-masted in respect to his memory and the members of Mystic Lodge K. of P., of which deceased was an officer, took charge of the body, details of brother members performing the said duties of the death watch buring the might. A Fire and an Accident.

At 7.05 o'clock on the morning of the 10th inst a eneral alarm was sounded from the bell tower, he cause being the disseavery of a fire in a small hanty near the What Cheer House at Kapshama. shanty mear the What Cheer House at Kapalama. Confusion werse confounded reigned amongst the engine companies for a short season no ward being struck, as location was fixed on, each company going it alone. In haste to reach a point on Fort street, where the fire was said to be, the eart of Pacific How Co. was made fast to a wagon and speed made for the supposed location of fire, when nearly opposite Mrs. Luch's store on Fort street, a native riding on the wagon seat, fell off and F. Harrison a member of the Hose Co. tripped over the prostrate body and fell, the wheels of the Hose cart passing over both the fallen heroes. The result to both men was several bruises. In the meantime information was received that the fire had succambed to a few bucketfuls of water thrown by natives who had originated the fire: damage small.
